

THE ORACLE

VOLUME 3, NO. 4

THE OHIO STATE U. NEWARK CAMPUS, NEWARK, OHIO

APRIL, 1967

EDITOR AND REPORTERS RESIGN

Roger Coffman, Editor of The Oracle, Sharon Curtis, and Jenny Cannizzaro, reporters, have announced their resignation from The Oracle, effective May 1, 1967. Roger feels that he doesn't have the time to adequately serve The Oracle as Editor, and believes that when an activity, such as being on a paper staff, becomes a chore, and is no longer a source of enjoyment, someone more capable and able should assume the duties of that activity. He has been accepted as a scholarship student at Marietta College, to enter in the fall, and would like to give more time to his studies. Shary is giving up her duties as reporter in order to devote more time to her school work. She, also, feels that she doesn't have the time to justifiably fulfill her position. Jenny, too, believes that she doesn't have the time to do her job as it should be done. All three wish The Oracle continued success.

THE ART OF GOODNESS

By KATHLEEN SMITH

Not being an irate fraternity member, nor an irate non-member, you might guess that this author is female—correct! Now gentlemen, let's take a look at the fraternity from a logical point of view—the feminine point of view! The fraternity brothers insist that their organization is one which will serve the students of Newark Campus and raise its prestige as a college, however, the non-fraternity men insist that the organization is a clan whose chief purpose is to exclude men who the members feel are inferior. Perhaps it is time for each man to consider himself first as an individual, for living is a peculiarly individual task. Just as your fellow members or your friends cannot take your mid-terms for you now, neither will they be able to meet the test of your manhood for you in the professional world you will enter so very soon. Eventually every man will have to decide alone what he must do with his life.

Fraternity membership should help a young man to grow and to realize his potential and to accept his limitations. In other words, a man with the help of his brothers should learn to make the most of himself as an intelligent and sensitive human being. On the college campus intelligence is often taken for granted. However, fraternity and non-fraternity men should consider the word sensitive. Let's forget for a moment about the superiority of your intelligence, your talents, your appearance, and your attitudes and take a good long look at your fellow man. If you look long enough and are honest with yourself, you will be able to find something worthwhile about every man you consider. You might admire his vocabulary, his golf, his hon-

CAMPUS PROFILE

No student has ever attended the Newark Campus without knowing and liking Mrs. Herbert Bope, Administrative Secretary. Always willing to help a confused student with his schedule cards or with any other problems, she is our multi-purpose friend, indeed.

Mrs. Bope is a native of Athens, O., where she attended Ohio University. She worked as a secretary in the engineering department of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation before being appointed secretary to the director of the Newark Campus on its opening day, June 1, 1957. In April of 1959, she won the coveted award, "Secretary of the Year" of the Moundbuilders Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Mrs. Bope's avocations include music and flower arranging. She is a charter member of the Newark Music and Study Club, and has been a member of the Second Presbyterian Church senior choir for 18 years. A charter member of the Faunus and Flora Garden Club and of the Moundbuilders Rose Society, she and her husband won the highest award given for "Best of Show" rose exhibits and arrangements in the State of Ohio (Buckeye District) two consecutive years.

When asked for her observations concerning Newark Campus students, Mrs. Bope replied, "Top notch." She feels that most students choose to attend the Newark Campus because they prefer the small campus atmosphere with the educational advantages of the large university. This provides them the opportunity to adjust easily from a typical high school situation to the subsequent greater independence of college life.

She added that the most interesting and fascinating part of her job has been being part of an institution which has grown in 10 years from non-existence to a vital force in this community offering outstanding opportunities in college education for young people in this area. The years have been "challenging, exciting, and rewarding."

Mrs. Bope lives at 350 Stare Rd., Newark, with her husband and their son, Jim, who is a sophomore in the College of Arts.

EDITORIAL

NOTE: There are numerous matters of concern at the Newark Campus, such as the worthlessness of Student Senate, the incompetence, and indifference of some Senators toward their duties, the unexplained duplication of some services and activities by several organizations at the Newark Campus and many students' lack of interest in scholastic achievement, resulting in a lack of a college atmosphere at the Newark Campus. These are all grave matters that are apparent and alarming. But, rather than dwell on one specific area, the following article expresses the prevailing attitude toward, and the awareness of these matters at the Newark Campus.

Spring is here. The sky is azure, the grass is green, and the flora are bursting forth their beauty. The clean, clear brooks flow aimlessly, enroute to infinity. Never is the pure, healthy air more evident than it is in spring — it is the time for baseball and tennis (and golf, for the more sophisticated).

The creatures of the heavens are giving forth their familiar cries of ecstasy. Happy as larks are the young men, actively pursuing their perennial fancies.

The tranquility and hope of spring bring peace to the land . . . life is uncomplicated . . . all is right with the world. May spring last forever!

esty, his grades his car, or his girl. (There's bound to be something!) The point is that every man has value and it is up to his 'brothers' to realize that any man can be a good friend, with a little time, acceptance, and understanding. If a fraternity (or any organization) helps its members to become better people, then it is worthwhile. If it separates people and categorizes them it does immeasurable harm. If I have not appealed to your philosophical nature let's be practical. Gentlemen, how do you know that the fraternity member or non-member with whom you now argue will not one day be your employer, or your doctor, or your lawyer, or your brother-in-law? It is now time for all good men to see that there is good in all men.

P.S.—If you still can't believe that there is good in all men, just ask a woman.

Extramural Golf

By Ed Mullis

An extramural golf team has been organized at the Newark Campus. The team has already scheduled six away games and three home games, to be played during April and May with other branch campuses and private colleges. Being coached by James Gregory, the team practices during the week, free of charge, at the Licking Springs Trout and Golf Club. A travel-

A Quote

Concerning the question of referring to the Newark Campus "Branch" is the following quote made by Novice G. Fawcett in his letter to "friends of Ohio State" from the office of the President, The Ohio State University "... by 1967-68, all of our off-campus programs will be housed in permanent facilities and will be referred to as 'branches.'"
